

-----
Title: Darkness & Light

Author: Testerion
-----

Darkness& Light by Testerion

In the beginning there was only pure darkness. There was no light, no good or bad, only peaceful, calm darkness. The peace of darkness was broken by one bright flash of light, and after that, there has been war, pain, and misery. Guardian, as one were born inside of the realm where darkness was pure and he had ruled the complete darkness until that day. Many weaker gods of light came and together endlessly ongoing war between these two forces. Only one force can survive from the end of the war and everything that does not serve that force will disappear. Gaia, from other form Malik were born in between light and darkness. Gaia is to keep the balance between these two higher forces and keep the war going. Only then can life and peace reign among the gods. My family, egadrils, were born of Gaia's will to serve her purposes in realms where war is ongoing between picts and many others. The side of darkness is strong enough to defend itself against light.

We may rest.

Testarion Agadril
Last member of his house
With these words
said Testerion
slowly walked from
the burial chamber
where many of his family lay resting. He looked one last time
from the door before
he closed it for good,
sealing it completely
so noone could bother their peace. His work was done, war and by those words, life
would last at least until his time's
children would watch
over their great grandchildren. He walked down from the mountain where the chamber was, went back home, sat down,
and closed his eyes.